K.C. Wu To Put On The

Brakes? Shanghai, June 29. Drastic efforts to put the brakes on the steep climbing prices other Shanghai and Chinese cities was predicted today following, the return of Mayor K. C. Wu from Nanking where he conferred with Chiang Kaishek and Premier Chang Chun on economic conditions. Utilities rates are to be boosted in Shanghai shortly, increasing between 100 and 200 percent to keep pace with the recent slump in the value of Chinese money. Rice continued to top CNC$500,-000 per picul, sometimes jumping to CNC$600,000 despite the fact this is the senson when prices normally drop.

One United States dollar continued to command between CNC$46,000 and CNC$50,000 on the black market, depending on the perseverance of the seller .--Associated Press.

Implications Of The Plan

London, June 29. With the whole country solidly behind it, the Labour Government set out this week toward its goal of helping backward areas in the Empire stand economically on their own feet. The unanimous support for the new £100,000,000

Awaits A Coherent Mord Policy

Events Forcing Early Decision:-- "Cook Or Get Out Of The Kitchen" Nanking

Nanking, Must Have A Huge Loan

(By James White)

San Francisco, June 29. The world still waits for a coherent American policy towards China. If such a policy exists it needs to be explained publicly. As things now stand America presents the world this spectacle:

United States turns over to the Chinese Nationalist Government some ammunition (which can hardly be used for anything but fighting or coercion) and at the same time withholds from the same government large scale economic assistance it needs to fight its civil war and perhaps even stay alive, taying in the civil war. l answer?

Here are some implications: It must be expected that the sale of this ammunition at one tenth of its cost will arouse violent reaction among the Chinese Communists and others who have said all along that any American aid to the Chinese government would strengthen its civil war effort.

To such critics bullets are going to look even worse than dollars. This reaction can be expected to go far beyond the netual importance of the ammunition itself which is a special size and useless to anyone clae unless he has the same German designed rifle the Chinese central army uses.

130 Per Man

rounds which would give the Kuomintang soldier perhaps 130 bullets assuming there are a million such soldiers fighting the Communists. This is valuable but it is not going to deeide the civil war even assuming the Chinese government can get the stuff to China and distribute it.

The government armies could ing the truth these days.

More important is the ruling It was also believed the moves seen " of the United States Import Esport Bank that although its $500,000,000 fund carmarked for China is expiring unused; individual projects China still may merlt both official and unofficial loans where found "acceptable."

Everything depends upon what is acceptable, but what is?

ARMS EMBARGO

Nanking, June 28. Government quarters today welcomed the United States action in lifting the embargo on military supplies as a most significant step in American policy.

It amounts to 130,000,000 It was generally held here that the lifting of the embargo and the statement of Import-Export Bank chairman Robert M. Martin Jr. that the bank is prepared to give China loans for specified projects, has strengthened the Government's position and allayed fear in some Chinese quarters.

Patty Beats Budge John Bromwich

Wimbledon, June 28. A packed Wimbledon Centre Court saw the first real upset of the championship this afternoon when 23-year-old Budge Patty, of the United States, unseeded and not even ranked in his own country, beat the Australian No. 1 player, John Bromwich, seeded No. 2, and expected finalist by 6/4, 0/6, 6/4, 1/6, 6/4.

Patty is almost unknown in the United States as he lives on the Riveria, where he says he prefers to play his tennis.

No Trade Discrimination

Shanghai, June 29. Answering 'frequent, criticism' that it discriminated against Am increasing need to face up to it in Asia." said erlean business, the Chinese Board of Import and Export Control declared today it had shown no discrimination toward any American or other foreign company in issuing importalicenses granting foreign' exchange:

American and other foreigners frequently charged they had been denied licenses for imports while Chinese firms were able to obtain them, also that the stringent import regulations apparently were made only for foreigners since the Chinese importers seem able to circumvent them.

The board said it had prepared a long statement of denial which will be sent to the United States State Department.

A spokesman for the board said that charges that Chinese "big" families" have a virtual monopoly of the import business are untrue.-Associated Press.
